Varsity Basketeters Ready for Opening

Floor Season Starts at Central Coliseum Friday Night When Team Plays William and Mary College—Freshmen to Meet Tech High in Preliminary—Dancing After Engagements

George Washington will open up its winter basketball schedule Friday night at the Central Coliseum, Ninth and Pennsylvania Avenue northwest, in playing William and Mary College, of Williamsburg, Va. The Virginians come from the second oldest institution in the United States. They have taken rapid strides in athletics, recently and are opening up negotiations with G. W. U. in basketball. In the spring the colleges will meet in baseball, while next fall the football teams are scheduled to meet in Norfolk, Va., on October 15.

All during the holidays the varsity squad has been at work. Handicapped somewhat by having to play on a small floor, considerable progress has been made.

Thirty-five candidates responded to the call just before the holidays, and Coach Morse has been working with the varsity and freshman teams for the past ten days.

In addition to the varsity game with William and Mary, the freshman team will play the Tech High School quintet in the first game of a scheduled double bill at the Coliseum. The first game will start shortly after seven o'clock and the varsity game will go on immediately thereafter.

At the conclusion of the varsity game there will be dancing, for which there will be a small extra charge.

It is expected that the varsity team will line up as follows: Stephens and Eskew or Springston, forwards; Loehler, center; and Capt. Boteler and Daily, guards. In reserve are Hatcher, Spears, Bracklow, Wright, Potter and Kaplan.

The freshman team probably will be selected as follows: Butler, Wood, Jackson or Colburn, forwards; Pepper, center; and Newby, Goldstein or Brown, guards. Tech High was winner of the high school championship last year and has a first-class team this season. A fine contest is expected.

On Monday at the Coliseum the varsity team will play the officers' team of Camp Humphreys, which will have several West Point stars. Among them is Lieut. Eugene Vidal, the famous basketball and football star of the Army.

Vidal has been playing with the Humphreys' Engineer team for two years. He played football last fall and put up a wonderful game against the Marines. Last summer as a member of the Olympic team he went to Antwerp and gained third place in the pentathlon.

On Wednesday, January 12, George Washington basketeters go out to Brookland to play Catholic University. The freshmen will engage the C. U. freshmen, and another first-class contest is expected.

1921 CHERRY TREE TO HAVE NEW SECTION

Staff Announces that Space in Annual Will Be Devoted to Wandering Greeks.

The Cherry Tree management announces that the 1921 Cherry Tree will contain a section to be known as "The Wandering Greeks." This section will contain the pictures of all Fraternity men and women who belong to college fraternities that do not maintain chapters at George Washington. It is requested that all such persons purchase tickets entitling them to sittings at the photographer's (Edmonston's, on F Street). These tickets may be had from any member of the staff or in the library, at the rate of $2 each. Photographs must be made by the middle of the month.

This is something new that the Cherry Tree is inaugurating this year, and it is hoped that "The Wandering Greeks" in the University will respond and make the new section a success, in order that it may be repeated in the future.

PLANS TEA DANCE.

The Student Council, through Harry Newman, is planning a tea dance to be held at the Hadleigh Hotel, Sixteenth and V Streets Northwest, after the midyear examinations.

UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL PLACED IN FRONT RANK

American College of Surgeons' Survey Puts Stamp of Approval on G. W. U. Fitness.

Dr. William Cline Borden, dean of George Washington University Medical School and head of the University's hospital, has received word from the American College of Surgeons, which has just made a survey of 692 hospitals in the United States and Canada, that the University hospital is one of the 377 institutions which received the stamp of approval. Nearly half of the hospitals investigated were denied approval because of lax methods and failure to safeguard properly the interests of patients.

Extensive Survey.

The survey, the most extensive ever made in the country, included every general hospital in the United States and Canada having more than 100 beds. The list of approved hospitals is based upon the fundamental fitness of the institutions to give proper care to patients.

"In these approved hospitals," says John G. Bowman, director of the College, in a formal report on the survey, "the doctors have created for themselves a clear-cut policy which requires first, adequate study and treatment of each case and a written record of what is done for the patient; second, proper laboratory facilities to aid in the study and treatment of patients; and, third, regular review of the professional work done in the hospital, both to encourage the best service and to prevent errors."

Aims of Hospitals.

"Hospital standardization aims to safeguard the patient against error in diagnosis, against lax or lazy medical treatment, against unnecessary surgical operations or operations by unskilled surgeons. It aims to bring to every patient, however humble, the highest service known to the profession."

The journal "Modern Hospital," commenting upon the hospital survey, says: "The hospitals that have been approved are to be congratulated upon their enterprise and their conscientious effort in meeting the standards of the college. The appearance of their names on the list may be taken as an indication of their willingness to protect the right of their patients to be well."

"In this connection it may also be said that when hospitals are in need of support from the community they have the right to go to their chamber of commerce and say: 'We are doing our part to serve the community efficiently, as evidenced by the fact that our names appear on the list of approved hospitals of the American College of Surgeons, and we ask for your support in our efforts to secure the funds needed to carry on our work acceptably.'"

GRADUATES NOW PLAY.

The graduate rule has been stricken from the athletic rules of the University of Pennsylvania. Men who now hold a degree from there or any other college and are pursuing graduate work in the university are eligible for the varsity athletic teams.

CHERRY TREE NOTICE.

All pictures for the 1921 Cherry Tree must be taken and all proofs returned by January 20. The Edmonston Studio can accommodate more students before 2 p. m. than after, so G. W. students are requested to sit for pictures before 2 p. m.

ENGINEERS TO MEET.

The Engineering Society will meet next Monday, January 10, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of Lisner Hall, 2023 G Street. The subject of the evening will be "Wireless," and an excellent speaker has been secured for the evening.

MASONS MEET.

The Masonic Club of G. W. U. met December 18 and held initiation of new members, followed by a social hour. The G. W. U. Masons are planning to give a dance this month. They are also occupied with plans for the convention of the League of Masonic Clubs, to be held in Washington some time in May. The club will meet again on January 15.

WHO'S WHO IN G. W. JUNIOR CLASSES

Hatchet to Publish a Series of Articles Giving Short Biographies of Junior Presidents.

Who's who in the Junior Class. In view of the coming Junior Week, The Hatchet has arranged to print short biographies of the Junior Class presidents, so that the University may become better acquainted with them.

L. Brooks Hays, President of the Junior Law Class.

L. Brooks Hays, familiarly known as "Deacon," first saw the light of day somewhere way down south in Arkansas. After attending the public schools and hunting razorback haws for some few years, he entered the University of Arkansas and nailed an A. in 1919. While at the State university he was quite active in a number of ways, being a member of the intercollegiate debating team, two years president of the Y. M. C. A., editor in chief of the "Razorback" (annual of the University of Arkansas) and other interests. After spending a short time in the United States Army seeking new worlds to conquer, he entered George Washington University Law School in the fall of 1919. Brooks has shown his ability in the Nation's Capital as well as in his native State, by making the intercollegiate debate, holding the position of cartoon editor of the 1921 Cherry Tree and taking an active interest in student activities in addition to being president of the Junior Law Class.

He is a Mason, an active member of the American Legion, and a member of Sigma Chi, Phi Alpha Delta and Tau Kappa Alpha fraternities and may be seen around the Law School with a genial smile most any time after 5 o'clock.

G. W. VAUDEVILLE SHOW TO BE GIVEN JANUARY 13

Will Use Auditorium of Carroll Institute at Tenth and K Streets.

Thursday night, January 13, at 8:15 p. m., the curtain will rise on the first production of the George Washington Players for the season of 1920-1921, when the Players present a vaudeville show at Carroll Institute Hall, Tenth and K Streets Northwest. Carroll Institute auditorium will seat 600, so that the actors have no fear of playing to empty seats. The admission will be $1 for reserved seats and 75 cents for unreserved seats. If the show is a financial and dramatic success, there is a possibility of a second presentation.

The Mandolin Club will start the show with a few numbers. During this act the audience will have an opportunity to see the versatile "Tex" Nalk take the part of a "bimbo down on bamboo isle," and, accompanied by the stringed instruments, he will give some of his best steps.

A black-face act will follow this, the minstrels being Charles Boteler, Cam. Burton, Jack Daily and Leon Katz. These boys have kept the contents of their act secret, but past performances warrant a big act.

The third act will be a one-act sketch, "Where Is Helen," written by

RIFLE TEAM FORMED AT G. W. UNIVERSITY

Arrangements complete; National Guard Armory Range Secured For Use of the Team.

A Rifle Team at George Washington University is now a fact. During the Christmas holidays all the preparations preliminary to the formation of the team were completed. A range has been secured for the use of the team, the National Guard indoor range, in the National Guard Armory, at Fifth and L Streets NW. Practice will be held every Friday evening from 7 to 11, beginning with January 7. Additional practice for the members of the team will be arranged in the near future.

In view of the fact that range facilities place a restriction on the number of persons who can shoot, it will be necessary to cut the list of candidates by the 1st of February, but it is strongly desired that everyone shall have a chance to make the team, so every candidate will be given a chance to show his ability during January.

A number of experienced shots have already turned out for the team, but there are still a number of men in the University who have ability in this sport, and who have not as yet turned out for the team. All men who are interested are urged to give their names to Walter Stokes, manager of the team.

TO HOLD JUNIOR WEEK DURING THE CELEBRATION

Announces Junior Week Committee. Plans Functions in Connection With Centennial Celebration.

The second annual junior week will be held this year in connection with the University centennial celebration during the week of February 20 to 26. The plans for the week include a junior reception at the University Law School, on the night of February 22; a junior prom at Rauscher's, February 24; and a junior play, probably at the Central High School, February 26. The centennial celebration of the University will include class dinners on February 19, a university dinner February 21, and the convocation exercises on February 22.

The junior prom will be held at Rauscher's, and will be one of the biggest—if not the biggest—dances of the school year. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m., with all the time allotted to dancing taken up by dancing. The music will start to play promptly at 10 and will be there until 2. Refreshments will be served at midnight, and a flashlight picture of the persons at the dance taken. The music will be the best available.

Good programs will serve not only as a record of dances, but as a reminder afterward of the dance. Boxes for the fraternities and classes of the University have been arranged for. The tickets will be $5 each, but the price includes the war tax and a ticket that will admit one couple to the junior play the next Saturday night.

The junior play will be given Saturday following the prom. The play will be announced in the next issue of the Hatchet, as will the place and time.

The junior week committee is composed of: J. Foster Hagan, chairman; J. Fuller Spoerri, chairman of the prom committee; H. C. Espey, chairman of the reception committee; Ralph S. Nagle, chairman of the play committee, and Grace Womersley, secretary, with R. M. Taylor, treasurer. Further details of the junior week events will be announced later.

RECEIVE SILVER FOOTBALLS.

The 13 letter men have been presented with silver footballs to be worn as watch charms in commemoration of their services for the past season's work. On the front is engraved "G. W. U. 1920," and on the rear the name of the man to whom it was presented. Those receiving these tokens are John R. Daily, Capt. Harry R. Hawley, James P. Hume, Harold T. Kay, John Loehler, Paul Loehler, Russell N. McAlister, Knut Nilsson, Edward Sandys, G. Bailey Springston, Gilbert Walter, Clifton A. Whyte and Manager Russell I. Whyte.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

JANUARY 7, 1921

The season for basketball has arrived. Old G. W. U. again sends out its fighters on the field of intercollegiate sports, perhaps to greater success than ever before. It is time again for the students to become fired with enthusiasm and interest. Jump into the game with a bang; COME TO THE GAMES!

"What I could have done?" How often that question comes into our minds; many times it comes unbidden. There are few, indeed, who have not had occasion to look back with some regret upon wasted opportunities. It has been said that opportunity knocks at our door but once. Not so. Opportunity is ever present in some form or another, patiently waiting to be embraced. But why continually shun it? Many of us in college are shutting the door on opportunity when it comes in its most inviting form. Time is precious. Effort expended now will make later years less hard. Don't rest content with saying, "Tomorrow I will start in earnest." Start now. Don't give opportunity the cold shoulder any longer. Grab it, and use it for all it is worth.

Another organization has made its appearance at the University. It was very appropriately named "The Wandering Greeks." The motive involved in the formation of this society is to bring into closer contact the men in the University who are members of some national fraternity having no chapter at George Washington University. All men who are members of some national fraternity which does not maintain a chapter at the University have been urged to affiliate with the Wandering Greeks. This seems to be one of the most laudable projects the year has evolved. The organization seems to offer many advantages to fraternity men who have come to George Washington from other universities. We believe it is an excellent idea and should receive the hearty support of the University.

G. W. U. CO-ED BASKETBALL TEAM DEFEATED 8 TO 5

The girls' basketball season at G. W. U. opened at Business High School December 18 with a double-header. The varsity team played Wilson Normal School and the Blue and Buff teams had a game. The score of the first was 8 to 5 in favor of Wilson Normal, and of the second 20 to 6 in favor of the Buff.

Both games were exciting, and the teams showed good work. As they were the first games of the season, the girls were rather nervous and therefore overzealous. This was the cause of the somewhat numerous free throws, but this difficulty will not trouble the girls in the coming games.

Those who played on the varsity team were Margaret Brewer and Grace Pickering, forwards; Frances De Grange and Martha Dunham, guards; Esther Eckert, center, and Pattenon, side-center.

The line-up of the Blue and Buff was as follows:

Blue	Position	Buff
O'Day	forward	Mathews
Prescott	guard	Thour
Reeves	forward	Belt
Hill	guard	Geshickter
Hancock	center	Roland
Bryant	side-center	Beck

Substitutes: Blue—Steele for Hill, Phillips for Hancock; Buff—Hadden for Mathews.

Sigma Phi Epsilon won every game from Sigma Chi and maintained its place as third. Kappa Sigma on the same night (December 16) defeated Delta Tau Delta with a score of two games to one. The outcome of this match was rather uncertain until the last.

On December 20 Sigma Nu added one more to her line of victories by defeating Sigma Alpha Epsilon three games. Delta Tau Delta won out over Theta Delta Chi on December 20 with a score of three wins.

Standing of the teams up to and including December 20:

	Won	Lost	Per.
Sigma Nu	17	1	.944
Kappa Sigma	13	5	.722

G. W. VAUDEVILLE SHOW

TO BE GIVEN JANUARY 13

Louise Latham Wilson and directed by Joe Garnett. The leading parts are taken by Alec Preece and Caroline West. They are a pair of college lovers surrounded and hindered by other characters: two college chums, "Tex" Nall and Wood McCallin; Helen's chum, Winifred De Voe; a pair of elderly lovers, Joe Garnett and Louise Strother; the professor, Earle Manson; and the Irish maid, Mary Vacarro. This is a sketch full of snap and bound to please.

In the fourth act "Pres" Haynes will take the audience from the sublime back to the ridiculous in a skit of his own, entitled, "The Wandering Sailor." Accompanied by Harry Sokolov at the piano, he will sing a number of songs, some being "Sailing," "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," "Feather Your Nest," and "Proud of Me."

The fifth act will consist of three dances. First will be a toe dance by Mary Vacarro. Next Lois McDaris will appear and entertain with esthetic dancing. Following this "Doc" Nagle and Ralph Peterson will attempt a burlesque on the previous dancers' efforts.

The Glee Club will conclude the performance with an exceptionally clever and well-staged act. Under the direction of Mr. King-Smith, they have prepared 20 minutes of original entertainment.

Joe Garnett is managing the show and, with the dress rehearsal yet to come, he expressed confidence in the Players' ability to entertain the crowded house which the actors anticipate. Manager Garnett acknowledged with thanks the help of many in preparing the production and especially commented on the services rendered by J. Foster Hagan and Mr. King-Smith.

These two great events attract motorists from every section of the country.

Hence this preference for Fatima is more than usually significant. It shows that what most men want is not an expensive, over-rich, straight Turkish cigarette, nor the ordinary "thin-tasting" Turkish Blend, but Fatima with "just enough Turkish."

Not only do Fatimas contain more Turkish tobacco than any other "Turkish Blend" but they are entirely free from the oily heaviness of straight Turkish cigarettes.
